A Jolly party of politicians, of whom Adial E. Stevenson was the joillest, left New York In a opec al car over the New York Central Railroad at 10 o'clock this morning. The carload was obserred by half a hundred of Chauncey Depews loyal employees as it pulled out of the depot, but Chauncey himself did not come out of his office. Another theer was given by the passengers of a train that had just pulled into the depot, and the echo from their load hurrals for their Vice-Fresident was the last sound of the continual enthusiasm with which Nr. Stevenson and Grover Cleveland have been greeted during their visit to New York.

Mr. Stevenson was up bright and early this morning and had his grip packed before the average New York politician commenced rubbing open his eyes. His triend, James S. Ewing, was with him and was somewhat startled when Mr. Ste-
